Enhance Your Art With Mats

From Kaye, Customer Care Advisor:

"The rule of thumb with matting is to choose a width that is at least double the width of the frame for a visually balanced presentation. Right now, we're seeing a lot of small Instagram prints with extra wide 4" white mats and narrow frames. These look great alone in a small space like a bathroom, or hung in groups like a gallery grid."

How Do I Measure For Matting?

Follow the tips below to determine the perfect mat size for your presentation.

What Size Should My Mat Window Opening Be?

The opening is the visible portion of your artwork. When ordering on pictureframes.com, we automatically allow for the mat to overlap your artwork so all you need to do is provide the size of your picture. If you are measuring yourself, please allow for the opening in your mat to be ¼" smaller than your artwork size in each direction. This will keep the art from falling out.

How Big Should I Make My Mat Borders?

Borders are amount of mat on each side that surrounds your artwork. Mat size is a matter of personal taste. We recommend borders that are twice the width of the frame or at least 2½".

What Size Frame Do I Order?

Order a frame that is the same size as the outside of your mat. Outside mat size is the same for all mats in multiple-mat presentations. If you have an existing frame you can measure the back opening of your frame to get the size.

How Much Offset Should I Have?

When using multiple mats, the offset is the visible portion of the lower mat. We recommend 1/4 inch offset (or reveal) of your lower mats.
